But when a long lost ancestor of Arlo's appears in the forest, will Arlo's world turn upside down? Voices : Unanimously positive reviews for Darwin, Despites the Deluge. One reviewer said, "It's witty and intelligent without being cruel. It's funny without being cruel or mean. It's uplifting, but it's not cloying." Awards : Shortlisted for the Man Booker Prize 2010. Named Children's Book of the Month in the UK for November 2010. In the News What's on the Menu in the Foyer? by Nicole Auerbach In the four years since its launch, Welcome to the Foyer has become a leader in fashion-oriented magazines for younger readers, including its most recent issue, which was released in May. The magazine has grown its magazine, digital and licensing businesses to drive the same type of revenue growth as Mademoiselle and Glamour. Consequently, in a market that is increasingly dominated by digitally distributed publications, the company has seen growth across the merchandising and licensing channels. "Our mission is to have a team of one hundred people who are simply passionate about fashion and will work relentlessly to transform the industry," said Jennifer Keese, vice president and editor-in-chief, Fashion. According to Keese, the company's success is closely aligned with the well-being and interest of readers. "We believe that our magazine is right on the pulse of what people like to read," Keese said. "We have a loyal audience who has been with us from the beginning," she added. "We have managed to stay true to the brand while making the content interesting to our readers." The company's media plans The company has an aggressive plan to double its newsstand sales in the next three years, reaching a total of at least 10 million units. In May, the magazine launched a new fashion blog, Foaly, that features Keese and other members of the editorial team as guest bloggers. In an effort to become a recognized brand of fashion, Foyer has developed a social media marketing plan to capitalize on its growing fan base and develop its digital 82157476af
